El día de los niños/The Day of the Child—El día de los libros/The Day of the Book

Celebrations on the 10th Anniversary

El día de los niños / El día de los libros —The Day of the Child / The Day of the Book is celebrated on April 30th throughout the United States. The day is meant to highlight the wonders of childhood and the importance of literacy in the lives of families. Schools, libraries, children's booksellers, and publishers around the country plan events to commemorate the day and promote literacy. This year is the 10th anniversary of the day.

During April, Raven Tree Press authors and illustrators are celebrating El día de los niños / El día de los libros with readings and signings of their children's bilingual (English/Spanish) picture books.
Various events include:

- The author / illustrator team of Amy Crane Johnson and Robb Mommaerts will give a presentation featuring their seasonal Solomon Raven Series at Martin Luther King Elementary School in Green Bay, Wisconsin on April 6th.
- On April 27th author Dawn Jeffers will present a story time reading and book give-a-way at Brown County Library (East Branch–Green Bay, Wisconsin) featuring her award-winning Vegetable Dreams / Huerto soñado.
- Diane Gonzales Bertrand, author of My Pal, Victor / Mi amigo, Víctor will be a speaker at the ACEI Annual International Conference April 15th and at the Texas Library Association's 2006 Annual Conference April 28th.

Activities to help you celebrate El día de los niños / El día de los libros can be found on the Raven Tree Press website www.raventreepress.com .
