Abby "cooks up" comical and innovative strategies to get glasses. Try making your own glasses like Abby does. Sparkle Playdough is a fun "scent"sational alternative to clay.

Abby's Sparkle Playdough

5 cups flour
6 Tblsp. vegetable oil
1 cup salt
4 pkg. Kool-Aid®
4 cups boiling water
NOTE: These are NON-EDIBLE.

Mix all dry ingredients together. Add the oil and boiling water. Stir until well mixed. Knead when cool enough.

Add glitter and other fun things (buttons, feathers, etc.,) to your scented Playdough creation! Keep in a closed container and use over and over again.

Kathryn Heling is an elementary school psychologist and Deborah Hembrook is a Wisconsin kindergarten teacher. They have co-authored I Wish I Had Glasses Like Rosa; I Wish I Had Freckles Like Abby, (both from Raven Tree Press) and phonics readers: Mouse Makes Words, Mouse Makes Magic, and Mouse's Hide-and-Seek Words (2004 Oppenheim Toy Portfolio Gold Award) (all from Random).

Bonnie Adamson majored in English in college the first time around then went back and got a second degree in art from the University of Tennessee—Knoxville. She works at home—in a studio cubbyhole wedged in next to the children's playroom—in South Carolina.
