Cinnamon Bear lives in the North woods and pine trees are part of the scenery. Cinnamon and little Cubby would surely love a Christmas tree decorated with these spicy, fragrant cinnamon/applesauce ornaments. So will you! They smell so good you'll be tempted to eat them, but don't, these are non-edible.

Cinnamon's Applesauce Ornaments

Mix 3/4 to 1-cup applesauce with 1 (4.12-ounce) bottle ground cinnamon to form stiff dough. Roll out to 1/4-inch thickness. Cut with cookie cutters. Make hole for ribbon. Carefully put on rack to dry. Let air dry several days, turning occasionally.
*Makes approximately 12 sweet-smelling, wonderfully aromatic ornaments.
NOTE: These are NON-EDIBLE.

Amy Crane Johnson lives in the North woods too! In Green Bay, Wisconsin to be exact. She loves to bake and Christmas time is her favorite time to make sweet treats, including gingerbread cookies and Cinnamon's Applesauce Ornaments.

Robb Mommaerts earned a BFA in graphic design and illustration from the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater. His degree guided him into a career in graphic design. Robb puts some of Cinnamon's Applesauce Ornaments on his Christmas tree every year.
